Freedom is almost synonymous with movement: fast cars, migrating birds, wind - if it moves, it's a metaphor for freedom. And so it goes that travel should also be associated with freedom and its inherent escapism. But freedom can also refer to safety, peace of mind and relaxation. Nowadays, regardless of definition, it's more important than ever that our freedoms to be celebrated.

So, whether you want to celebrate by getting away without the hassle of going very far, or just want to commemorate a special occasion in the most luxurious way possible, Camissa House and MannaBay Boutique Hotel are ready to cater to your every need. Made for the leisure-seekers and cabin-fever escapees among us, Cape Town's most sought-after addresses are officially opening their doors and rolling out the red carpet - just for you.

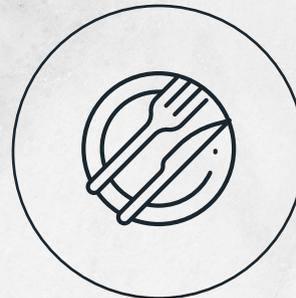

You Don't Need to Go Far to Get Away
